Long Past Memories

"Geo. H. Collins" - F. W. Sanborn
The minds of those who are "waiting" run in about the same channels.
Geo. H. Collins, editor of the Star-Herald of Presque Isle under caption of "Our First Newspaper Client" has this to say:

Mr. Granville Gray, who opened offices in the Boone Block, Wednesday, Feb. 1st, and "hung out his shingle" as a legal practitioner, told a Star-Herald reporter that his first client put in an appearance the same day.

We do not know the name of this first client, nor just what he wanted.
We get help in this quest, but we are led to wonder if this first client, his name and the circumstances connected with his coming, what a substance of an impression on the mind of Mr. Gray as the first "client," we had when we went into the newspaper business now nearly forty years ago.

We had just taken over what was known as the "North-star," and all we had to cheer us in the enterprise was the fact that such tangible assets as a Washington hand press, a few cases of dilapidated type, a small list of delinquent subscribers, and a pilot for the almost finished craft in the person of the late Henry A. Dunn.
We had been in the proud possession of this hopeful outfit but a day or so when, in walking down Main Street, we met, exactly in front of what is now Geo. Oeh's dry goods store, Uncle David DeWitt. Uncle David stopped at the curbing mill, and in a most friendly way, reached down into his trousers pocket, and fished out one of those old-fashioned silver "car-wheel" dollars, and told us to put his name on the list for a year's subscription.

What a man needs and needs very badly in such an uncertain and hazardous venture as we had started in, is some tangible evidence of public approval and good will, and if all the self-respecting and God-fearing elements of the community had taken counsel together to consider our case, no better representative could have been chosen to extend to us the right hand of fellowship than Uncle David.
If he had met us with a frown and a scowl of disapproval, instead of a smile of encouragement, sealed with that "car-wheel" for a year's subscription it might have sunk our frail barge. As it is Uncle David gave us a big boost in the right direction. Uncle David went to his reward many years ago, we sweetened his passing on with the best obituary we were able to frame and grind out on the Washington hand press, and as for ourselves, well, nearly forty years later, we are still on the job, and the fashioned silver dollar many years ago, is still in existence, and not only existing, but flourishing fairly well, and doing us honestly believe worthwhile work for the community in which it is planted.

It is harder to tell what we did not have in the days when we met our first newspaper client on the street, than what we did have. Among the things we did have was plenty of snow in the winter. That winter of 1887, Arthur Gould—then plain "Arthur Gould"—not Senator Gould—went in lumbering, and jokingly claimed in the spring that there had been 123 feet of snow. Gould had it exaggerated ninety feet. According to "Parson Keep" of Ashland, who among other things he did kept a diary, there was a total snowfall of thirty-three feet.

The above brings to mind our first customer in Norway. It was in early June 1882. We were located exactly where we are to-day but occupied only one fourth the building. We were waiting for the first customer and were a bit in eminent fear it might be a woman. We were then superstitious and haven't as yet fully gotten over it.

A large framed man with black curly hair and flowing beard, came in to speak leaving his horse and carriage, and before at the outset, we were told that he was our first customer and first subscriber.
It was Henry B. Cotton, Center Conway.
He continued to take the paper for the almost half a century since. The customer was a South Paris female milliner who wanted hand bills announcing a marked down sale in her line of goods.
When, in walking down Main Street,
we met, exactly in front of what is now Geo. Oeh's dry goods store, Uncle David DeWitt. Uncle David stop-
name on the list for a year's subscription.

SPRING FEVER

Along in the spring a feeling of unrest comes over the indoor people. It is partly a tired kind of languor from the approach of warmer weather, but still more it may be a discontent with one's daily task or surroundings. The great outdoors looks so enticing.

About now one feels like breaking all the customary habits, quitting the job at the bench or in the home, and roaming from the less fixed habits of the old days, in the time when people worked what hours they chose.

Fortunately our people's working time is not as long as it was a few years ago, and they get considerable time off in which they can roam around the country and enjoy sports and pastimes.

We must think of a life of idle roaming, but we should get tired of it quickly enough if we tried it. So our spring fever should not be permitted to dominate our whole mood.

mentine Morgan and Edith Mason.

PUT FRILLS ON YOUR FOODS

A few frills makes any dish taste better—particularly a dessert. It makes it look better as well. The best of it is that a frill is inexpensive. It may be a sprig of mint in a fruit cup or drink; a slice of lemon on the rim of a tea cup or served with fish; or some attractive little combination of foods served in a cu-mber rind, an orange skin or a hollowed-out, rosy apple.

Here is one idea. You can easily think of many others, but you'll never know how much attractiveness adds to your dishes until you try it.
When making orangeade, orange cake or any other orange dish, take the pulp from each half rind and save the latter for the orange rind; add a little chopped apple and small orange segments mixed; thrust a half banana (cut crosswise) in to the center, and top with a strawberry or a red cherry. Just before serving, pour a little fruit dressing (lemon and orange juice and sugar will do) over the oranges and apples, and drop three or four tiny mounds of whipped cream (sweetened and flavored if you wish) at the base of the banana.
This whole gives the idea of a candle set in an orange rind candlestick—and it is very delicious indeed.

"Just think of it!" exclaimed Flora.
"A few words mumbled over your head and you're married."
"Yes," agreed Dora, the cynical.
"And a few words mumbled in your sleep and you're divorced."

A colored school teacher is credited with the following: "The word pants is an uncommon noun, because pants are singular at the top and plural at the bottom."

A girl isn't necessarily timid because she jumps at a conclusion.

OXFORD COUNTY UNDER QUARANTINE FOR THE TEST OF CATTLE

Effort to be Made to Eradicate Complete Bovine Tuberculosis from the County.

The Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture and the Division of Animal Industry of the Maine Department of Agriculture are co-operating for the eradication of Bovine Tuberculosis in Maine, and the work in Oxford County has progressed to that point where it seems feasible and desirable to make this county a disease-free area.

Herbert M. Tucker, Chief of the Division of Animal Industry, Maine Department of Agriculture, acting under authority conferred upon him by Chapter 24 of the Public Laws of 1925, has declared the Oxford County to be under quarantine for the purpose of a complete examination and test of all cattle, such quarantine to be effective on and after April 23, 1928.

On and after April 23, 1928, no cattle of any kind, except best animals and veals for immediate slaughter, shall be brought into Oxford County unless they have passed a complete test applied by a veterinary approved by the Division of Animal Industry of the Maine Department of Agriculture within one year, or unless such cattle come from a Modified Accredited Area.

Under this management the efficiency of the poultry plant has been greatly increased. All output has been to the commercial field and will be field product of the country. He will be the Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.
